'My Fair Laddie' Gayest Event in Sacramento History

The tremendously successful production of "My Fair Laddie" made its debut at Selina's Parlour in San Francisco on April 10, 1966. It was staged again one week later by popular demand; an occurrence which broke Jose's long-time rule never to repeat a show in succession. The play, written by Judy Cutcomb, remained off-stage for some time, simply because the right man couldn't be found for the leading role. It was finally given a boost when the name 'JOSE' was mentioned, and after approval, it was decided to fashion it after his type of opera. Now, Empress Jose' is bringing her entire cast to Sacramento for ARC's May 30th Brunch so that Sacramentens can enjoy this happy show.

Supporting Jose in "My Fair Laddie", is Joe Campanella as Elija DoNothing. Joe played in "Guys & Dolls" for nine weeks with the Opera Ring in San Francisco. He also helped organize the Children's Theatre in Denver.

Charles Kay is cast as Colonel Snickering in the show. Charles worked for Warner Brothers as publicity agent for 4½ years.

The show is a take-off on "My Fair Lady", and presented in the same pygmalion-type fashion. It begins with the discovery of Elija departing a Greyhound Bus in the 7th & L station, by Professor Higgins and DoNothing. They take immediate notice of Elija's poor condition and decide to transfer him from a country bumpkin to a city gentleman. What happens beyond this point is for one to imagine... but guaranteed to bring laughs and sheer enjoyment. See y' all at the brunch!
